

Utrecht Centre for Medieval Studies

Lecture Announcement

3 May | 13.15-15.00 | Drift 21, 0.32

Writing a Medieval History Textbook

Prof. Emer. Barbara Rosenwein

Loyola University, Chicago

Professor Barbara H. Rosenwein (Loyola University, Chicago) is an internationally renowned historian, who has worked on several important topics, such as monastic property and social relations (resulting in To Be the Neighbor of Saint Peter: The Social Meaning of Cluny's Property) and the history of immunities in the early Middle Ages (Negotiating Space: Power, Restraint, and Privileges of Immunity in Early Medieval Europe). In addition, she has published widely on the history of emotions (for example Emotional Communities in the Early Middle Ages), and has published several textbooks on the Middle Ages, including A Short History of the Middle Ages (<http://www.rosenweishorthistory.com/>).

In this general lecture Barbara Rosenwein will explain what goes into writing - and revising - a textbook, while at the same time guiding us through the medieval past. All are welcome. We in particular like to invite Bachelor-students for this lecture.

Can't get enough?

Barbara Rosenwein will be back on 4 May to give a second lecture! Title: 'From "Worrying about emotions" to Generations of Feeling'.

(For more information, please see the UCMS website.)

